Communications Article Presenter: CST 110 is designed to help you improve and reflect on your interpersonal relationships and communication skills. Before the start of almost each lecture class, the class will participate in presenting a communication article, topic, or skill. You will sign up to present on separate dates. Topic must relate to lecture topic of the day. These are very informal presentations to be given at the beginning of the class. Presenter is required to have a visual aid for the entire class (i.e. show a website, video, handouts for the class, or copy of a newspaper article). Suggestions for communication topics include the newspaper, The Huffington Post, Emily Post Institute, and the textbook.
